

Share Art, SmArtly!

The Problem:

There isn't a simple way for artists to share and sell their work without previous public recognition (necessary to run a personal online store), or mass producing content (as would typically be done for an etsy shop, for example).

The Solution:

Artly allows artists, creatives, and individuals who want to sell their art on the side to sell their work easily. Simply create an account and post as much or as little as desired. Art postings can be as professional or nonprofessional as desired: professionally photograph your canvases or snap a photo of your drawing straight from your phone from within the app.

The app also makes it easy for potential customers to browse, shop, and save artwork they like to their account to revisit later.

Even downloading the app without the intention of buying or selling allows for the opportunity to explore the work of up-and-coming artists or get artistic inspiration for your own work.
